Alzheimer’s
LOS ANGELES
FISCAL YEAR 2019
IMPACT REPORT
JULY 1, 2018 - JUNE 30, 2019
The 2018-2019 fiscal year was a year of both stability and visioning. Those two concepts don’t always go together, but for us they created balance. In the previous fiscal year, we took time to evaluate our priorities and focus on efficiencies, and we launched a strategic planning process. The first part of the fiscal year saw a refining of our priorities through the completion, approval, and first steps of implementation on our new plan. The process was rigorous and data-driven and led to a strategic vision that will guide us for the next several years.

The planning process reaffirmed our commitment to our mission. It also strengthened our dedication to educating, supporting, and empowering the nearly 240,000 people in Los Angeles and the Inland Empire who are living with Alzheimer’s or another dementia, their families and caregivers, and the professionals who serve them.

This report is a snapshot in time and shows some of our highlights from the year in addition to our financial status at the close of the fiscal year. We are so proud of our accomplishments and thank you for your support. There is always so much happening at Alzheimer’s Los Angeles, and I invite you to come by for a visit.

Thank you for your partnership this past year. We look forward to continuing our work together in the future.

With gratitude,

Heather Cooper Ortner | President & CEO

YOUR DOLLARS IN ACTION
ALZ DIRECT CONNECT, CARE COUNSELING, EDUCATION, & RESpite

Sonya was born in Los Angeles and has fond memories of her dad’s love of painting, art, trivia, and music. She went to UCLA and graduated with a bachelor’s degree in physiology, went on to get her pharmacy technician license, and began working at local CVS and Walgreen’s pharmacies.

Sonya believes her dad began showing the first signs of memory loss when she was in her late teens, but was not officially diagnosed until a few years later. At that time, both parents received life-changing news. Her father was officially diagnosed with Alzheimer’s and moved in with Sonya, and her mother was diagnosed with lung cancer. Sonya stepped back from her career to care for her father and to simultaneously care for her mother who lived about ten minutes away.

HOW WE HELPED
Following her father’s Alzheimer’s diagnosis and many changes in behavior, Sonya was referred to Alzheimer’s Los Angeles by her social worker through our Alz Direct Connect Referral Program. She was connected to a care counselor and immediately started receiving emotional support, disease education, and resources to help her navigate her new journey. We created a care plan with the goal of preventing caregiver burnout by providing regular support, respite, and connection to a support group. We helped improve Sonya’s knowledge of the disease and how to manage challenging behaviors. Her father was extremely resistant and refused to bathe, so we provided education, problem solving, and coaching to help her better manage his care needs. We also provided support when her father was hospitalized and gift cards to purchase crucial products.

SONYA’S TENACITY

While juggling to care for both parents, Sonya went back to school at the age of 27 to continue her education towards a new career in nursing. She earned an associate degree from her local community college and then went on to graduate in May 2017 from Cal State LA with a bachelor’s in nursing. While Sonya was finishing her degree, her beloved mother passed away.

She since has begun working as an RN in a local medical-surgical unit while caring full-time for her father. Sonya has been helping increase awareness about the rise in millennial caregivers in the LA area. She was interviewed by Maria Shriver and selected to participate in a Today Show special about millennial caregivers but, at the last moment, was unable to participate because her father was hospitalized. He has since recovered. Despite this, Sonya is very proud to be chosen as a voice for young caregivers and she continues to utilize her skills in medicines and nursing to provide daily care for her father. She hopes to one day pursue her master’s degree in nursing and continue to provide care for those in need.
OUR MISSION

Improving the lives of local families affected by Alzheimer’s & dementia by increasing awareness, delivering effective programs & services, providing compassionate support, and advocating for quality care and a cure.
